DETECTIVES RIP UP OFFICE FLOOR AND FIND BONDS

Documents Found in Dennett's Office That Are Expected to Disclose a Conspiracy of Financiers and Clerks for Embezzlement.

DOUGLASS WILL MAKE FULL CONFESSION, HIS WIFE SAYS.

Evidence disclosing the inside workings of the conspiracy back of the stealing of bonds worth $300,000, from the Trust Company of America by W. O. Douglass, the assistant loan clerk, was found this afternoon hidden under the floor of the office of Oliver M. Dennett, the broker who is under arrest in connection with the case. The evidence was discovered by Assistant District Attorney Murphy and Central Office detectives in the presence of Oakleigh Thorne, president of the Trust Company. Mr. Thorne was overjoyed at the find and expressed the opinion that it will unmask the inner workings of the conspiracy.

Mr. Murphy and the detective force have been unable to find were in the safe guard all information about the mass of papers. There were several letters, books and a box full of correspondence from which the names of the bonds which the trust company

JOCKEY MARTIN BEATEN ON HIS FIRST MOUNT

Reinstated Rider Lost Today on Grapple, 1 to 4 Favorite.

CAMPAIGNER A WINNER

Showed Remarkable Reversal When Price Switched From 1 to 2 to 6 to 1.

(Special to The Evening World)
AQUEDUCT RACE TRACK, April 25.—The sensation of the racing season came in the third race when "Jack" Martin, reinstated only yesterday by the stewards, was defeated on the 1 to favorite Grapple, after the joy he had received an ovation from the multitudes at the track side which remained one of the scenes of Murphy, Harrison and McLaughlin. A comparative novice, McLaughlin, riding at 8 pounds and guiding his colt Campanier, proved the composition of the odds of a minute before from the pedestal of spontaneous popularity when the late winner, Grappler, Master and Campanier, the latter a outsider, went to the post.

The Club House signified its pleasure over the return of Martin to the saddle, starting the applause. It was heart, and the wave broke upon the grand stand and lawn, to be swept onward to the race field, until it seemed that every man and woman on the grounds were given cheering or applauding in other manner.

Every one, bookmakers, owners and trainers of Grappler, as well as Martin, were confident of the outcome, and when Campanier, with little Henry riding, masterfully guided his mount down the stretch to a well-earned and more victory, admiration was unanimous. At 6 to 1, Master and Campanier entered what the horses went up.

Third Inning.
Alzicer hit a sharp shot to Eberfeld, but was safe in a few minutes. Eberfeld, however, was held by Highland, while the others were held by Leopoldo—Perrier, who was thrown out by McMurtry. NO RUNS.

Fourth Inning.
Stapler failed to Alzicer and McMurtry.
